Union Budget 2025 live: Prioritise adoption of clean and renewable energy technology, says Chakr Innovation's Founder

“As we approach the Union Budget, it is imperative for the government to prioritise policies that accelerate the adoption of clean technologies and renewable energy. The cleantech sector is keenly observing the potential support for industries committed to sustainability. Initiatives like the PM-KUSUM Scheme and the National Solar Mission have laid the foundation, but additional incentives such as tax benefits, grants, and subsidies will encourage more organisations to transition toward green solutions. Promoting self-reliance under Atmanirbhar Bharat while reducing dependency on external resources will further strengthen India's economic resilience. A focused approach in this direction will not only drive environmental health but also establish India as a leader in sustainability and innovation,” said Kushagra Srivastava, Founder, Chakr Innovation.
